ABSTRACT

This annotated bibliography cites 132 multiethnic curriculum materials for grades K through 12. It is designed to be used by students, teachers, and administrators. Some of the materials focus on specific groups, such as Blacks, American Indians, Puerto Ricans, Italian Americans, Chinese Americans, Slavs, Scandinavians, and women. Other materials discuss cultural pluralism in general and topics such as prejudice, parent-child relationships, or independent learning techniques. Collected since the publication of the previous supplement, almost all entries in this sixth supplement have been published since the early 1970s. Eight sections contain citations of seven motion pictures, 11 filmstrips, one sound recording, nine learning kits, one photo aid series, two simulation games, eight pamphlets, and 93 books. Materials are listed alphabetically by author or title under each heading for type of material. Included in each entry are author, title, publisher, date, purchase price, a short description of the material, and grade level recommended for use. An appendix lists publishers' addresses. The materials are also available from the Midwest Center for Equal Educational Opportunity, 408 Hitt Street, Columbia, Missouri 65201 for temporary use at no cost except postage. (AV)

PREFACE

The following bibliography is the sixth supplement to the Annotated Bibliography of Multi-Ethnic Curriculum Materials and represents the materials collected by the Midwest Center for Equal Educational Opportunity since the publication of the original volume in the fall of 1974, and the first five supplements from 1974-1977.

This supplement includes books, films, filmstrips, recordings, and booklets available for temporary use at no cost, except for return postage, through the Midwest Center for Equal Educational Opportunity (MCEEO), Columbia, Missouri.

HOW TO USE THE BIBLIOGRAPHY

Included in each entry are the following items: name of author, editor, or compiler, title, publisher, purchase price, source reference number , description of material, level of use.

For the sake of convenience, we have included at the back of the bibliography a numbered list of names and addresses of the sources where materials may be purchased. Numbers on this list correspond to the source reference numbers immediately to the right of purchase prices with each entry. All purchase inquiries should be directed to the appropriate address(es) from this list.

Levels of use are indicated by lower case characters for areas of possible use and by upper case characters for areas of most effective use. For example, "junior high" indicates a possible level of use, while "JUNIOR HIGH" indicates a definite level of use.

HOW TO BORROW MATERIALS LISTED

All requests for temporary use of materials included in this bibliography should be directed to the address below. Please indicate first and second choices and dates of use. Because of high demand for films, the lending period for films will be three (3) days. It is therefore necessary that the showing date be established at lease three weeks in advance of the order. All other materials may be kept two (2) weeks. If additional time is desired for materials other than films at the end of the two-week period, an extension may be requested. Any intervening request for the material from another person or group will have preference, however.

MCEEO will pay one-way postage and insurance only. Return postage and insurance must be paid by the borrower. Materials may be returned to MCEEO through the library mail rate or United Parcel Service. Insurance is required in addition to postage rates.

Because MCEEO's Resource Center is continually growing and looking for new sources of materials, we would appreciate being informed of any materials not included here which would be important additions. Please share your knowledge with us. The bibliography is updated semi-annually.

Printing costs prohibit MCEEO from making numerous copies of this bibliography available, so please feel free to duplicate it. We encourage its wide distribution.

Requests for materials may be directed to:

MOTION PICTURES

Anything They Want To Be

1974, University of California, Extension Media Center
Minutes (7), $95.00 #352

One of a three-part practical film presentation on sex role stereotyping as it evolves in classroom situations. Presents the "myth" of equal opportunity in intellectual and career pursuits by revealing sex bias in a crafts class, problems a girl encounters when she attempts to solve a mechanical problem, a "put-down" of a girl in a science class, and a discussion among some kindergarten children and their biases in career roles. The film may be used singly, or with the two other films in the series: Hey! What About Us? and I Is For Important. Useful for administrators, teacher education courses, in service education, elementary and secondary classrooms, and community groups--any situation where one needs to create an awareness of sex role discrimination. Each film is accompanied by the handbook, "In All Fairness." The handbook stresses the importance of being aware of sex role stereotyping, presents a review of the literature on sex differences, as well as giving the main points and instructional activities for each scene in each of the films. Color.

Subject Area: Teacher Reference, Sex-Role Stereotyping.

Level: intermediate, JUNIOR HIGH, SENIOR HIGH, TEACHER, ADMINISTRATOR REFERENCE

Bilingualism: Promise of the Future

1976, Bilingual Education Services Minutes (27), $450.00 #329

One of the most comprehensive films available on bilingual/bicultural education in the U.S. In color, it dramatizes the fundamental concepts underlying the need for effective bilingual education. The story follows the experiences of a young Spanish-speaking child in elementary school. When she functions in her language, she excells; however, her performance suffers in the traditional school environment because she feel alienated. The film includes a documentary by leading proponents of bilingual education, such as Sen. Joseph Montoya, Attorney Ed Steinman, John C. Molina, and former U.S. Senator Ralph Yarborough.

Subject Area: Bilingual Education

Level: TEACHER, ADMINISTRATOR REFERENCE

Different Folks

1975, Agency for Instructional Television, Minutes (15), $180.00 #326

One of a series of films developed by the Agency to stimulate the interest of 11-13 year olds in the development of life-coping skills: valuing, decision-making, confronting, risking, experimenting, fantasizing, meditating, etc. This film deals with non-traditional sex-roles in the home. Matt's family has different arrangements for meeting family needs than traditional families do. His dad, an illustrator of children's books, works at home and does most of the housework. Matt and his sister, Judy, are assigned household tasks: ironing, vacuuming, dishes, etc. Glenda, the mother, is a veterinarian and provides most of the family income. Matt's friends chide him about his family being 'wierd '--but the problem is resolved and Matt's friends learn that apparent sex-roles can be deceiving. Guide provides a summary of the film, discussion helps, learning activities, and open-ended questions. Color

Subject Area: Sex-Role Stereotyping, Family Living

Level: ELEMENTARY, INTERMEDIATE, JUNIOR HIGH, SENIOR HIGH

Hey! What About Us?

1974, University of California, Extension Media Center,
Minutes (13), $200 #352

The film shows ten scenes which include a physical education class, playground activity, frivolity in the classroom, etc., to reveal how sex role stereotypes in physical activities are perpetuated within the school context. How do teachers reinforce such stereotypes? Are girls capable of participating in traditionally "masculine" sports? Should boys have to perform in certain ways in order to be "manly?" The film is one of three films in the Sex Role Stereotyping Series. The series is useful in any situation that calls for awareness education in sex role discrimination. The handbook which accompanies the film, "All Fairness," describes each scene, gives the main points and suggests instructional activities. The other two films in the series are Anything They Want to Be and I Is For Important. Color.

Subject Area: Teacher Reference, Sex-Role Stereotyping

Level: intermediate, JUNIOR HIGH, SENIOR HIGH, TEACHER, ADMINISTRATOR REFERENCE

I Is For Important

1974, University of California, Extension Media Center
Minutes (11), $160 #352

Film gives six examples of sex role stereotyping in social and emotional events. Some of the scenes depict how girls are taught that they should be physically attractive for men, that boys have no apptitude for caring for others who need tenderness during a time of stress, and that boys should not express emotions, etc. The film brings to the viewers' attention the stereotypes that have become an accepted way of life in our society. There are two other films in the series: Anything They Want To Be and Hey! What About Us? An accompanying handbook entitled "In All Fairness" explains how each scene can be used to illustrate a common stereotype and some instructional activities to help overcome it. Color.

Subject Area: Teacher Reference, Sex-Role Stereotyping

Level: intermediate, JUNIOR HIGH, SENIOR HIGH, TEACHER ADMINISTRATOR REFERENCE

Impressions of Prejudice

1974, Guidance Associates/Motion Media, Minutes (18½), $300.00 #90

An awareness-raising film that enables the viewers to empathize with the victims of prejudice. The film examines the source of prejudices and stereotypes involving minorities, ageism, sexism, appearance, etc., and encourages the viewers to develop a method of dealing with the manifestations and extensions of them. Marred by the consistent use of the masculine pronoun and "man" to refer to men and women, even in instances when only females are pictured. (This may be used as a point of discussion after viewing). Color.

Subject Area: Multi-Ethnic Studies, Human Relation, Social Studies.

Level: intermediate, JUNIOR HIGH, SENIOR HIGH, ADULT

Labels: If You Label It This, It Can't Be That

1976, Film Fair Communication, Minutes (13½), $175.00 #336

Children and adults of various races define words like communist, Indian, red-neck, hippie, Mexican, hard-hat, "Chinaman," Russian, Gypsy, and label. Shows how labels perpetuate misconceptions and stereotypes. Color. Can foster discussion of other labels ("male," "female," etc.) and about labels and stereotypes in general.

Subject Area: Human Relations, History, Social Studies, Multi-Ethnic Studies

Level: All levels

FILMSTRIPS

Afro-Americans Speak For Themselves

1969, Educational Dimension Corp. $52.50 #32

(3filmstrips, 3 cassettes, counselor's guide)

The plight of the American Black in the U.S. is described in the words of the people themselves and thereby vividly articulates their hopes, fears, desperation, resentment, soul-sustaining music and bitter humor. Part 1 deals with the early days of slavery and the writings of that era--examples being Phyllis Wheatley (1773) and Frederick Douglass. Part 2 continues Black history from the Reconstruction period through the literature of Booker T. Washington and W.E.B. DuBois. This section covers other notable Black contemporaries such as Langston Hughes, James Baldwin, & Malcolm X. Part 3 provides a penetrating look at social problems through Black leaders of today--contributions by Eldridge Cleaver, Elijah Muhummad and Dr. Martin Luther King.

Ancient American Civilizations

1973, Encyclopedia Britannica $42.00 #36

(7 filmstrips. silent.)

An examination of the development of three well organized civilizations in South America up to the time of the Spanish Conquest. An excellent resource for conducting a comparative study of the Incas, Mayas, and Aztecs. The filmstrips include maps with the principal cities and road systems emphasized. Each civilization has two filmstrips--the first one in each pair shows economical and social structure; the second filmstrip presents a detailed study of advance in engineering, science, arts and agriculture. The filmstrips average about 45 frames each.

What Do I See When I See Me? -- Emotional and Social Growth In Children

1977, Parents' Magazine Films, Inc. $200.00/$50.00 each #347

A series of color, sound filmstrips consisting of four sets. Deals with the affective area of growth in children. Designed for use by teachers, students, parents, paraprofessionals, or anyone who programs for people interested in gaining a deeper understanding of children and family life. Each set may be borrowed separately.

Set 1: "I See Hope." The Importance of Emotional and Social Development

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, discussion guide)
A presentation on the way children think and feel about themselves, the way they interact, and their reaction to stress. When does the child need professional help with a problem, and when can the problem be worked out independently? Titles in the set: What Is Affective Development?, Major Milestones, Understanding Affective Development, The Family Role, Care and Development Outside the Home.

Set 2: "I See Smiles, I See Frowns," Expressing Emotions.

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, discussion guide)
Discusses the importance of both negative and positive feelings. Gives examples of how adults can help children handle anger, fear, sadness and jealousy in positive ways. Parents can be supportive to children by letting them know that they understand about their feelings. Titles in the set: The Importance of Feelings, Pleasure and Love, Fear and Anger, Sadness and Jealousy, Emotional Problems.

Set 3: "I See Strength." Building Self-confidence.

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, discussion guide)
Adults can encourage self-confidence and be able to provide an environment conducive to support the child as they try new things. Titles in the set: Importance of Self-Confidence, Origins of Self-Confidence, Independence and Internal Control, New Situations and Trauma, Self-Confidence and Skills.

Set 4: "I See Love." Parent-Child Relationships.

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, discussion guide)
In order for children to grow up as independent, well-adjusted people, they need the support of the important adults in their lives. A child's behavior is related to the expression or personal needs and the fulfillment of those needs. Titles in the set: Understanding Children's Behavior, Communicating With the Very Young, Communicating with Pre-schoolers, Helping Children Relate to Others, Handling Everyday Problems.

Level: ADULT

With Pride To Progress: The Minority Child

1976, Parents' Magazine Films $200.00/$50.00 each #347

A four-part sound filmstrip series developed to meet the needs of people who want to gain insight into the culture and heritage of minority children and their parents. The series is designed to help minority children feel pride in their inherited background. The four sets are entitled: The Indian Child, The Puerto Rican Child, The Black Child and The Chicano Child.

Set 1: The Indian Child

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, 1 guide) Discusses the child rearing attitudes of American Indians and the values Indian children are taught, such as pride in heritage, self-reliance, love of beauty and humility. These values influence the way the Indian child reacts in the Anglo community. Titles in the set are: Between Two Worlds, Child Rearing Practices, Traditional Values, Parents As Teachers, and Going To School.

Set 2: The Puerto Rican Child

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, 1 guide) Depicts the effect of Puerto Rican culture on the development of the young child. An in-depth look at members of a Puerto Rican family is used to illustrate the conflicts between the family traditions and the American social situations to which many young Puerto Ricans have become accustomed. Titles in the set are: The Old Home and the New, Three Generations, Life with Puerto Rican Parents, The Formative Years, and Pride in Belonging.

Set 3: The Black Child

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, 1 guide) Dramatized episodes are given to illustrate the significance of certain situations in determining the Black child's racial self-concept. Parents and other adults important in the lives of young Black children contribute to the child's development of self-esteem, as well as the professional who works with children. Titles in the set are: The Black Child in America, Racial Awareness and Problems, The Foundation of Racial Identity, Black, Proud and Able, and In Behalf of our Children.

Set 4: The Chicano Child

(5 filmstrips, 3 cassettes, 5 script booklets, 1 guide)
Explains why Chicano children are often confused about their own self-concept and heritage when confronted by Anglo culture. Parental interest benefits the Chicano child's education. Titles in the set are: A Chance For Our Children, La Familia, Responsibilities of Parenthood, Learning With the Family, and From Home to School

Level: senior high, ADULT

The Woman's Role: America and England

1974, Current Affairs Films $10.00 #218

(1 filmstrip, 2 records, 1 guide)

Expresses the diverse points of view of American and British women as they encountered the Revolutionary war. The filmstrip gives visuals of common war time occurences, and the two sound tracks give the feelings, opinions, problems, and philosophies of women from the two different societies. The guide offers useful suggestions for a closer examination of the daily life of the 18th century American and British woman.

Level: JUNIOR HIGH, SENIOR HIGH

Women: An American History

1976, Encyclopedia Britannica Educational Corp. $86.95 #36

(6 filmstrips, 6 cassettes, 1 guide)

A series of six sound filmstrips arranged in a chronological sequence to emphasize an era in women's history. The titles in the series are:

"Women of the New World"--lives of North American women in the 17th and 18th centuries. Compares the roles of women in the European colonies, the Indian women, Metizos, and Afro-Americans.

Prejudice and You: A Learning Experience

1972, G. G. Voith $39.95 #69

Based on the premise that "...true learning experience must be action oriented and group centered," this cassette program provides for much student interaction. The heart of the program is 20 situations which are divided into three sections: "What is prejudice?" "Kinds of prejudices," and "What can be done about it?" The situations present the challenge for student discussion and a summary is given for each one. With the set is a booklet that describes the program and provides a reading of each situation. This program should stimulate students to analyze prejudice.
3 cassettes, 1 handbook.

Ethnic Studies: The Peoples of America

1973, Educational Design, Inc., $185.00 #279

(4 sound, color filmstrips, 14 cassettes, 2 cameo cassettes, 36 spirit masters, 30 copies of a final exam, 1 classroom guide)

A versatile multi-media resource kit for which the teacher will find several useful applications: a mini-course in ethnic studies of approximately 8 weeks length; supplementary material for specific applications in social studies, history, or literature classes; library resource material. Helps students to understand the social forces and values of a multicultural and multiethnic society.

Filmstrips/cassette: "What Is An Ethnic Group?," "The Great Immigration," "Ethnic Holidays," and "Ethnic Foods." An excellent introduction ot the concept of ethnicity, Defines an ethnic group, discusses how immigrants arrived here, shows national festivals, parades, costumes, etc., and displays ethnic food shops and foods. Averages about 14 minutes each. Spirit master summary and exercise sheets accompany this portion of the kit. ($62.00 if purchased separately.)

14 lesson cassettes/spirit master summary and exercise sheets: This portion of the kit deals with 10 major ethnic groups in America: Germans, Irish, Italian, Blacks, Jewish, Scandinavians, Mexicans, Puerto Ricans, French, Russian, Ukranians, Czeckoslavakians, Greeks, Hungarians, Chinese, Japanese, and American Indians. Each group shared similarities associated with immigration: hardships, poverty, lonliness, fear. They had come to America because of political and religious oppression, poverty and the search for a better life. The differences among them result from their reactions to stress; this is how their characteristics developed. (Any six cassetes, $59.00; each tape, $1.50)

2 cameo cassettes/summary and exercise masters: Discuss episodes that add depth to the lessons: "Making It," a teenage boy's account of his settlement in America, "Teach Me English," the work problems of a Polish immigrant; "Chinese Help Wanted," labor recruiting techniques in the 1860's; "The Indian and His Land," excerpts from speeches by Chief Joseph on the government's treatment of the Indians; "Oleana," a Norwegian immigration song and its history; " Ellis Island," "Advice From an Irish Politician," and "Tenement Living." ($23.00 if purchased separately.)

There are 30 final examinations to use with the kit, along with an explicit classroom guide. (Extra exams 10/$2.50)

From Racism to Pluralism/Racism Awareness Curriculum Kit

1975, Foundation for Change/Council on Interracial Books
$32.00 #23

(Filmstrip, cassette, manual, 3 booklets, 30 brochures, 10 photo cards)

The kit is designed so the teacher or trainer may use it in one classroom session (i.e., the filmstrip presentation, From Racism to Pluralism, 15 min.), or may utilize the Racism Awareness Curriculum Kit to accommodate 15 class periods, or 1-2 whole day sessions. The kit is a sequenced sensitivity training course to help people identify their own racist attitudes. Although it emphasizes institutional racism in a dogmatic way, it has some good exercises in the manual which would be very beneficial in examining personal depths of racist attitudes. The Racism Awareness kit contains three booklets entitled Rightness of Whitenss, Institutional Racism, A Primer, and Fact Sheet on Institutional Racism. There are 30 brochures captioned, A Contemporary Glossary, Definitions of Racism, and 10-3x5 pictures for use with a manual exercise.

Identity: Female

1975, Dun Donnelley Publishing Corp. Kit: $215; Program Preview: $8.50 #333

(Teacher's guide, spirit masters, overhead transparencies, 8 8½x11 gl ossy card visuals, 3 filmstrips, 6 cassettes, 2 sets of game cards, 8 Perceptions sets; Program Preview: 1 filmstrip and 1 cassette)

A course comprised of ten well-designed introductory modules dealing with the subject of "woman" from various viewpoints: history and art of women, women as writers and scientists, and as challengers for civil rights. The modules incorporate such comparisons as American family life at the turn of the century and today and primitive and prehistoric societies with present day cultures. The course includes sections on the effect of communication media on women's self-image and the pressure of society in the formation of sex-roles. The Guide treats each module as a chapter which contains a rationale, a bibliography, and a list of the individual materials needed to convey the objectives. The materials included are: two games: Artifact and Ad-Insult; three sound filmstrips: Women of the Frontier, A Fashionable Fable, and Women Artists--A 700 Year Review;three separate cassettes: Rap Sessions 1,2; An Anthropologist's Viewpoint, Family Conflicts; Perceptions, the individual readings for various modules: New Options for Women, Social History, Women's Place in Two Different Societies, Sexism in School and Society, How A Young Man Sees It, The Woman's Movement, Brief Biographies, The Woman Who Wasn't There. The Program Preview, which can be ordered separately, is a sound filmstrip which explains the highlights and uses of the course. Identity: Female is a solid introductory course which comes with the complete plans for a semester of classroom work. The course should lead students to examine their personal observations and attitudes.

Plains Indians Social Studies Course

1975, American Indian Curriculum Development Program $125.00 #327

(5 booklets, 14 posters, 1 teacher's guide)

A curriculum which has been planned, written and published by Northern Plains Indians. The kit is helpful to Indian children in developing their self-esteem and helpful to non-Indians in understanding the life-styles of the Plains Indians. The perspective of the kit emphasizes the common value system among the tribes as it explains their social customs, religion, technology, and art. The information for the kit was gathered from the tribal elders on the reservations, thus presenting an Indian point of view. The kit includes five units: 1) Circle of Life, social customs of the Plains Indians; 2) Peace Pipe, Center of the Universe, an introduction to religion; 3) Plains Indian Arts & Crafts, tools, weapons, and handicrafts from nature; 4) Indian Country, histories of five northern plains tribes; 5) A Feather to Each, biographies of past and present leaders, accompanied by 14 portrait posters. The guide offers suggestions for discussion and activities, with conceptual questions which lead to an insight into Indian life. Included is an excellent, extensive bibliography with conceptual questions which lead to an insight into Indian life. Included is an excellent, extensive bibliography with brief annotations.

Lerner has selected writings which indicate the strength, racial pride and community of Black women in their struggle to survive. Through these writings the reader is given an interpretation of the American past as seen by the Blacks. This work defines some of the major themes in the history of Black women, reveals unknown and little-known documents about their lives, (for example, primary documents about women in slavery). Included, too, is much material about Black women leaders who have had a significant effect during their own lifetime.

New Life Options: The Working Woman's Resource Book

1976, McGraw-Hill $10.95 #60

A product of research and practicality addressed to the more than 33 million women in the U.S. who are currently employed outside of the home. The book is divided into five parts, which are subdivided into chapters. Each chapter is written by a contemporary professional woman or man who has selected and assessed the elements included. Part I, "New Perspectives," discusses broad social trends, how they affect the working woman, and how the working woman can balance a home and career. Part II, "Getting the Best From Your Career," is readings on career opportunities, getting and keeping a job, how to deal with sexism on the job, and how to assess a climate to see if it will be favorable to professional women. Part III, "Taking Good Care of Yourself," is 6 chapters on how to keep fit, mentally and physically, Part IV, "The Potential of Your Relationships," deals with living alone, the man in your life, child care, and the working mother. Part V, "Managing Your Options," gives information on developing the ability to handle finances: property, inheritance & credit, continuing education, law and the employed woman, assertiveness training, positive approaches to separation, divorce, widowhood, and retirement.

Conference proceedings of conferences held at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, during the Winter/Spring, 1974. I. Approaches to Developing Models for Professional Growth and Development, Feb. 28-March 1, 1974. Workshop emphasizes that the effectiveness of an in-service program is related to the extent of involvement of the personnel that will be affected by the changes and activities brought about by it. Several studies of effective models of in-service programs are given: in-service education in the Public Schools of Macon County, Alabama; a model built on mental health concepts; a systems approach to professional growth and development, and a systematic approach to staff development. Teacher Training Institutions and the Need for Multi-Cultural Education, May 9-10, 1974. Pre-service education in the area of multicultural education at teacher training institutions has been lacking. Because the preservice is inadequate, the need for in-service education will continue to be a must. Documented by a questionnaire sent to 28 institutions of higher education in Michigan.

Fathers and Children: Andrew Jackson and the Subjugation of the American Indian

1975, Random House/Vintage $4.95 #320

The Age of Jackson, 1824-52, is analyzed in this documented study from the perspective of Indian destruction. In 1820, 125,000 Indians lived east of the Mississippi. 75% of these came under government removal programs within the next twenty years. By the end of Jackson's administration, every tribe east of the Mississippi and south of Lake Michigan, except for two tiny bands in Ohio and Indiana, had come under government removal programs. In 1844, less than 30,000 Indians remained in the east. What Jackson did not accomplish in dispossessing the Indians presidential Indian removal policies did.
